Be the change that you wish to see in the world.
This is a phrase of great Indian politician - Mahatma Gandhi.

Of course, I confirm with this quotation. It's really, so to change something in the world you need will this change. Also you should change your life, so be like to what you want doing. For support my opinion, I can say that the biggest deal begins with small deals. So if you want to do something, you should change yourself at first. ^{there's} Not smoke without fire, because you change yourself is a start a something bigger. If you don't doing something, you're get nothing.

For example, a main hero of "1984" Dj Oruell, Winston Smith began to change his mind and his everyday deals to opposite a Big Brother. When you read this literature creature, you're understanding what an even smallest human can make a resistance for a big bad.

For example from my life, when I wanted to change the world and make its better, I began to different take the rubbish out off the water when I brush my teeth and make another positive for an ecology deals.

For an end I think what Mahatma Gandhi ^{is} really right with his quotation about change the world. Really, be the change that you wish to see in the world.
